Three Sages Games

*Ooohhhh -
They're so shiny !*
Common quote from game cons

You're way past glass beads and plastic chips for your gaming counters. You're ready for something bold and striking, a counter that screams "yes, that's my game information being tracked right there thank you very much!" Something that sparkles in the light like the beads of perspiration forming on your opponent's brow as you brush aside their puny efforts aimed at defeating you and prepare to crush them once again....

Okay, you probably don't take your CCG, CMG, or other gaming that seriously. And you probably haven't given too much thought about the counters you use for your gaming. After all, your choices have been pretty limited until now.

Introducing Crystalline Counters™. These multi-use counters come in 9 colors and two sizes with a sizzle that glass beads don't match. They are light weight and have a non-uniform shape that makes them easy to pick up off the table.

They come in a handy tube in sets of 50 small or 25 small plus 5 large. They are available in clear (white), blue, black, green, pink, purple, orange, red, yellow and a combo pack of 10 each small in red, green, black, clear and blue or the same colors and 5 small and 1 large of each.

Why They'll Sell In Your Store

- * Colorful and shine when light strike them. Draws curiosity attention.
- * Accessory product for your top sellers (card and miniature games) plus functional with many other games as replacement pieces in board games, etc.
- * Impulse buy priced.
- * Self advertising. When your customers use them their friends notice and ask where they came from.

Display and Cross Selling Suggestions

- * Stand or hang near your dice or with displays that contain collectable card games.
- * Pour some crystals out into a shallow container so your customers can see them up close. The ability to handle loose crystals increases the likelihood of purchase.
- * Place where the sun strikes them or hit them with a directed light source from behind.
- * Small shelf signs with the circle picture from the other side available upon request.

One Line Sales Pitches

"You can upgrade your game experience with these new counters"

"How about some 'bling' for your (game purchased here)"

"Check these out. They're shiny!"
